

Kahlua is our beautiful 6- year old chocolate lab. She is one of the most loving and affectionate animals I have ever met. I adopted her when I was still in high school and found her picture online. She was living in South Dakota and she was one of the last two to be adopted from her litter. I still remember the day I came home to meet her for the first time. She was tiny and in control! She immediately made herself at home and established the fact that she would be princess of the household. I was in love! She is FULL of energy and is the type of lab you will see barreling her way through wherever she is. But that is why we love her.

Kahlua and I did a lot of growing up together. Each new city and apartment I ventured into during college, Kahlua was right there with me. Fast forward a few years and I am now a mother to a 9-month old son, and Kahlua is still right here with me. She is so gentle with the baby and loves to play with him.

This past August Kahlua was diagnosed with Lymphoma. I was in shock and disbelief and knew I would do whatever I could to save her. She has since tolerated her chemo treatments incredibly well, and we still go on our nightly runs together to keep her active. We are so very fortunate to have come across Paws 4 A Cure. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts. Kahlua is a loved and adored member of our family and we really appreciate your help.
